

The Tagged Tanakh

Enhancing the work of Jewish professionals and serious adult learners by providing comprehensive, convenient, and accessible digital content and tools to raise the quality of Jewish education.

How the Tagged Tanakh Works

How can you use the Tagged Tanakh?

DEVELOP CURRICULUM- Enhance your classroom activities with enriched content that is relevant to your students and vetted by JPS staff and educational experts so you can be a better teacher.

DO RESEARCH- Prepare a Dvar Torah. Look for biblical sources of modern concepts like environmentalism or bioethics without needing a rabbi or expert to help you sort and search through Jewish Tradition.

LEARN L'SHMA- Continue the age-old practice of learning for the sake of learning. Explore the Ancient Near Eastern context of Exodus or discover new midrashic interpretations of the Song of Songs.

BUILD COMMUNITY- Find people with common interests and values to exchange ideas about shared passions, interpretations or goals.

LEARN MORE AT WWW.JPSINTERACTIVE.ORG

For more information contact: JT Waldman, 1(215) 832-0619 jwaldman@jewishpub.org

What exactly is a Tagged Tanakh?

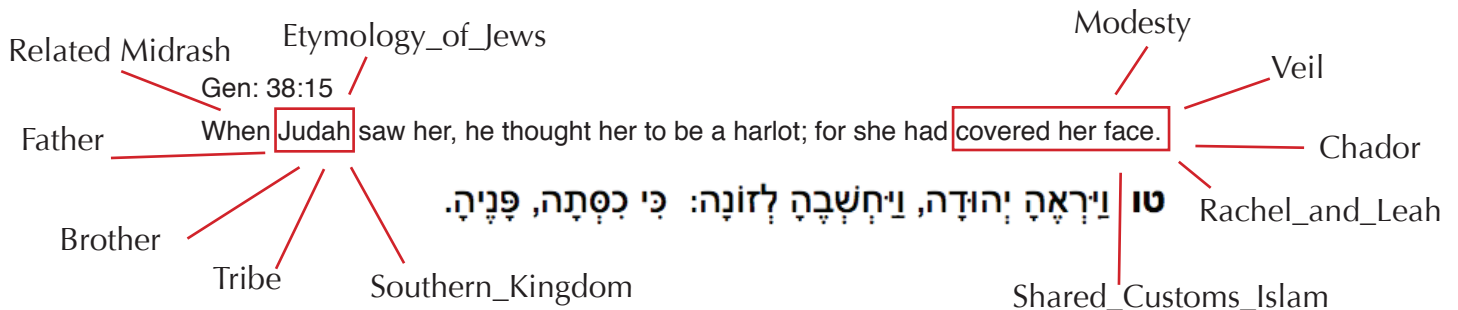

THIS IS A CHAIR

THIS IS A TAGGED CHAIR

NOW IMAGINE HOW YOU COULD TAG THIS:

The Tagged Tanakh in plain English

At the foundation of the Tagged Tanakh are digital versions of the Hebrew masoretic text and the JPS English translation. Guided by JPS's editorial expertise, leading scholars and educators will link a variety of relevant texts, commentaries, graphics, videos, tags, and additional resources to specific words and passages to provide multiple access points to the Tanakh.

In addition, users will be invited to contribute their own tags and annotations. Each user will also benefit from encountering those provided by previous users. These tags will enable users to discover a broad range of relevant third-party content, thus bringing the ideas and values of the Tanakh into dialogue with other sources of meaning found on the internet. Conversations and online interactions around specific topics will engage interest groups, networks of friends, and specialists. These online conversations will be archived and made available to later users. In this way, the wisdom of sages will join with the wisdom of the people to carry on the 3000 year conversation of Jewish tradition.

FOR MORE INFORMATION GO TO: WWW.JPSinteractive.org